James Ruse—The Man We Honour

The name of the school was chosen to honour the contribution of James Ruse to Australian agriculture.

Ruse, originally a native of Cornwall, arrived with the First Fleet as a convict. He was one of the few of the original settlers with any knowledge of agriculture.

At a time when the colony was facing the threat of starvation, he obtained from Governor Phillip the first land grant in Australia, and became the first person to support himself and his family from the products of the Australian soil, setting an example for others to follow, and disproving the opinion, then current in the colony, "that a man could not live in this country". By his industry and perseverance, he justly earned the title of our first farmer.

Ruse's first farm, known as the Experiment Farm, situated on the banks of the Parramatta River at Rosehill, was sold in 1793 to Surgeon Harris. In 1794, Ruse was again playing the role of pioneer, helping to open up the Hawkesbury district. From then on, he held land in various parts of the settlement, at Bankstown, Windsor and Riverstone.

Ruse spent his declining years in the Campbelltown district where he died on September 5th, 1837, aged 77 years. He was buried in the St. John's Cemetery at Campbelltown, where his grave can still be seen, marked by a headstone bearing a rather quaint inscription.

The School Song

(Words and music by Robert Anderson)

*He dreamt of freedom,
When from his farm they tore him,
With thieves in convict garb to toil
Far from the land that bore him.
Here found he freedom,
To fight with deeds, not words;
He tamed the soil and cleared the way
For crops and flocks and herds.*

*Gesta, non Verba!
His motto joins our chorus;
We'll cut the talk and strive to do
The task that lies before us.
Gesta, non Verba!
We come from far and wide,
But as one man we share the will
To wear those words with pride.*

*Our Alma Mater
Recalls James Ruse's story.
His humble name is honoured when
We gain some share of glory.
Hail, Alma Mater!
In conduct, work and play
Our aim shall be to bring that name
More honour every day.*
